ATTENDANCE LOG - January to February 2026

Date	Day	Attended	Instructor Notes
January 6, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	First class. Tight hamstrings, limited range. Felt good to start.
January 8, 2026	Thursday	Yes	Mountain pose, child's pose, downward dog. Shoulders tight.
January 13, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Better balance than last week. Cat-cow stretch helped the lower back.
January 15, 2026	Thursday	Yes	Introduction to warrior poses. Harder than expected.
January 20, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Warrior I and II. Left knee still stiff. Simone suggested a modification.
January 22, 2026	Thursday	No	Bellmark all-hands ran long. Missed class.
January 27, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Sun salutation sequence for the first time. Five minutes felt long.
January 29, 2026	Thursday	Yes	Sleep was better this week. Simone noticed improvement in form.
February 3, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Tree pose. Fell out twice, held it twice. Good session.
February 5, 2026	Thursday	Yes	Core work added. Not expecting that, but managed.
February 10, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Dorothy appointment in the afternoon. Got to class early.
February 12, 2026	Thursday	Yes	Longer savasana this week. Five minutes of actual stillness.
February 17, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Flow sequence, 20 minutes continuous. First time keeping up.
February 19, 2026	Thursday	Yes	BP was 128/78 this morning before class. Correlation is hard to ignore.
February 24, 2026	Tuesday	Yes	Simone introduced pranayama breathing. Useful for stress.
February 26, 2026	Thursday	Yes	Best class yet. Held warrior II for 45 seconds each side.

PERSONAL NOTES

Started this at Dr. Pryce's suggestion and Tanya's encouragement. I was skeptical. I am less skeptical now. The Tuesday and Thursday rhythm makes sense with the Monday, Wednesday, Saturday walking schedule. Six days a week of something physical is more than I was doing two years ago.

Sleep quality has improved noticeably since January. Whether that is the yoga, the reduced sodium, or both, I am not sure. I will take it.

Goal for next session: complete the 8-week intermediate series if Simone offers it.
